Selassie Cries At News Of Aksum's Capture By Fascist Army

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 15. (P)—Italian airplanes roared in bombing and reconnaissance patrols over Northern and Eastern Ethiopia today and Emperor Haile Selassie answered the threat with additional concentrations of thousands of infantrymen.

The Ethiopian government announced that two Italian planes bombed Aksum, near Makale, and that another had bombed troops concentrating at Makale, 60 miles south of Addis. There were no casualties, said the communique.

Planes Swoop Low
It was also officially announced that reconnaissance planes had flown over the Gota station of the railroad to Djibouti, between Dire-dawa and Awash.

Other Italian planes swooped low over Harar and virtually the entire populace there, anticipating bombing, evacuated to the hills or fled to Dire-dawa.

Spasmodic fighting was reported in the Northwest, where yesterday 150,000 Ethiopians were mobilizing for an attack on the Fascist invaders from Italian Somaliland. The first major battle of the undeclared war was expected to occur when the two forces clashed at Harar.

The emperor rushed enormous numbers of warriors to strategic areas to meet the threatened Italian onslaught in the North and South.

League Maps New Punishments of Italy; Stops Material for Arms
GENOVA, Oct. 5. (P)—The League of Nations' subcommittee for economic sanctions decided in principle today to recommend an embargo against the shipment into Italy of "key" products—materials used in the manufacture of war munitions.

The committee then proceeded to draw up a specific list of products which Premier Mussolini must have if he is to continue the manufacture of armaments and supplies for his forces in East Africa.

The tentative list included: Aluminum, zinc, copper, nickel, tin, coal, wool, managanes, and gasoline.

Petticoat Wins! Invades 'Amen Corner'

By VIRGINIA SMITH

A petticoat smirched the masculine sanctum of the "Amen Corner" at Laguna Beach yesterday afternoon for the first time since the bars went up a year ago. Kingfish Frank Cuprien shut his eyes to the "Men Only" sign and told me to come on in.

Women were "booted" from this exclusive "koffee klatch" of artists, business and professional men, writers, and adventurers, when the organizers decided that the other sex was cluttering up the place. A good-sized chain was strung across the section in the Sandwich Mill, where the talk-fests are held, and a neat "For Men Only" sign hung out.

"And you should have heard what the women said," chuckled the members. "They tried to organize their own Amen Corner and you can imagine what they talked about. I think you'd better go up and talk to them," they joshed.

The group started about two years ago, when the blue-eyed, white-whiskered Cuprien tried to convince his family he could stop drinking coffee. Orders of the beverage were stopped at the house, so he "smuck" down to the corner compartment of the Mill where he sat and invited passers- (Please Turn to Page 3, Col. 3)

DUCE VISIONS GREAT WAR
European Conflict Is Certain, Mussolini Tells American

ROME, Oct. 15. (P)—The Italian army formally occupied Ethiopia's holy city of Aksum today. General Emilio de Bono's army entered the city at 7:15 a. m., an official communique announced.

The news of the occupation reached Rome through the government broadcasting station at Addis. The news was heralded as "a victory for the Italian cause," not even second to that at Addis.

With Premier Mussolini, former Senator Henry Allen of Kansas said today. It Duce appears to have lost hope of avoiding a European conflict.

The former United States senator, publisher and observer of international affairs, after talking with Mussolini for half an hour late yesterday said:

"Apparently he believes frankly that England means war."

Il Duce told Allen in his interview—the former senator's second opinion, published in eight years—that he appreciated America's neutrality in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Mussolini was described by Allen as in "fine feather," welcoming his army's political successes among Ethiopian tribesmen.

Government spokesmen said Italy counted 20,000 Ethiopians on its side as the Fascist forces went about clinching their control over the northern area of the empire of Haile Selassie.

These warriors who have surrendered to Gen. Emilio de Bono, commander in chief of Italy's East African army, the spokesman said, would be given a chance to vote for Italian domination of Tigre province and against the reign of the Ethiopian emperor.

STATE BARES $6,000,000 MISTAKE
Huge Fund Deposited In Bank Without Posting Of Any Security

Probe of Alleged $20,000 Fraud Reveals Error By Treasurer

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 15. (P)—The department of finance admitted today that an audit of the state treasury has disclosed that Treasurer Charles G. Johnson deposited $6,000,000 of state funds in the Bank of America some months ago without any security being posted.

The discovery was made several days ago as department auditors searched the records of the treasurer's office in connection with the alleged embezzlement of more than $24,000 by William E. Shearer, missing treasury cashier.

Atlin Stockburger, finance director, said a report of the situation shows that $6,000,000 received by the treasurer from the sale of bonds to finance purchases of homes by war veterans was deposited by Treasurer Johnson in the bank without security.

"As soon as we called this matter to the attention of the proper officials, the bank posted the necessary security," said Mr. Stockburger.

A state law requires that the treasurer, before depositing certain funds, obtain the approval of the governor and the state controller for the proposed depository and call for security totaling 110 per cent of the deposit made.

Mr. Stockburger said a second state statute permits the treasurer, in depositing certain funds, to obtain the approval of the director of finance for the proposed depository but in such instances no security need be posted.

Mr. John, said the director, did not consult him before making the deposit of veterans' welfare funds.

NEW BANK FOR CAPISTRANO COUNTY RANCH CLAIMS DENIED
Margaret M. Putnam and seven other Los Angeles residents cannot obtain homesteads on the San Joaquin ranch, the Santa Ana rancho, the Sanitago, Santa Monica, Palos Verdes, Topanga, Malibu, San Fernando or San Pedro ranches.

The supreme court of the United States Monday refused to pass on the lower federal court in dismissing petitions of the applicants, each of whom had applied for a homestead on one of the ranches, contending patents granted 50 years ago were invalid.

CALIF. WOMAN SLAIN IN CHINA
NANKING, China, Oct. 15. (P)—The American embassy today requested the Chinese government to exert every effort to apprehend persons responsible for the death of Dr. Susan Waddell, a former resident of Berkeley, Calif., whom police said had been slain.

An autopsy today confirmed the belief the woman, who was last seen alive riding in a ricksha at 6:30 last night, died of strangulation. Her bruised body was found in a ditch today.

The prince later was killed in an automobile accident in Spain.

CITRUS PACT WINS FAVOR
Central and Northern California Growers Favor Agreement

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15. (P)—Central and Northern California citrus leaders went on record this morning in favor of AAA regulation of California and Arizona oranges and grapefruit at the hearing being held here on a proposed order to supersede the California-Arizona Citrus Marketing agreement.

H. B. McClure, Visalia, representing the Central California Citrus league, one of the state's oldest citrus cooperatives, advocated the renewal under the proposed order of the two areas now in existence.

"We propose as an amendment to the proposed order the division of the citrus producing areas into two areas, one of which will be that area located north of the Tehachapi pass. The oranges grown in that area mature earlier than those in other parts of the state and so should have a separate prorate period," Mr. McClure read into the record.

Northern California growers and shippers were represented by James Mills, sr., Hamilton City, who asked that special attention be given in the new order to the shipping requirements of shippers and growers in his area. He said that their problems also differ from the rest of the state due to early maturity dates.

"We also ask that attention be given to the elimination of the poorer grades of fruit and that the prorate when made take this elimination into consideration," Mr. Mills said.

The hearing was expected to end today, at which time the record will be sent to the secretary of agriculture who will decide if the new order will be issued.

GOOD WILL PLAN IS HAILED
Leaders Favor C. C. Policy

Santa Ana business men approve the new good will program of the chamber of commerce. The policy adopted yesterday, whereby the chamber will foster continued development of friendliness and will recommend that this city participate in community events in other cities, was commended today by men contacted by The Journal.

J. H. Bell, of the Bell Drygoods company, said: "I think the new policy is a very good thing. We feel down by not being in the Newport Beach tournament of lights and the recent parade at Huntington Beach. We are the center of Orange county and we ought to hold our heads up as

BLIZZARD IS HINDERING SEARCH

Santa Ana Man Missing Since Sunday in Mt. Lassen Park Area

RANGER LEADS HUNT

Others From County on Hunting Trip With Former Banker

Searching parties headed by National Park Ranger Eugene Barton today were battling a blinding snowstorm in the Lassen Volcanic National Park district searching for Angus J. Cruickshank, 70, of Santa Ana, who has been lost in the area since Sunday.

Mr. Cruickshank, former president of the First National Bank of Santa Ana, director of the Los Angeles district Federal Reserve bank and father of Miss Josephine Cruickshank, nationally known woman tennis player, has been in the northern woods for the past two weeks as a member of a party of Santa Anans, hunting deer.

Other members of the party are: A. J. McFadden, H. J. Forgy, Frank Forgy and E. Anderson, all of Santa Ana; A. F. Walker, Midway City, and Frank Ireland, Wil-demar.

According to word received here at 9:30 a. m. today from Mr. McFadden, no trace of the missing man has been found, and a blinding snowstorm has hindered searching parties. Mr. McFadden said that the area is covered with snow two to three feet deep.

Fear was felt that Mr. Cruickshank may have fallen into one of the numerous canyons in the National Park region and, injured, is unable to respond to searchers' calls.

Mr. Cruickshank was seen last Sunday near the park boundary. When he did not return to the McGowan Lake camp hunting lodge, headquarters of the party, his companions started to search for him. Their efforts failing, aid of forest rangers was enlisted.

20 Making Search
Ranger Barton took charge of the search and is heading a party of 20 men who are battling through snowdrifts in an attempt to find the lost hanker.

Santa Ana men who have hunted in the area where Mr. Cruickshank became separated from his party said today that the wild territory is one of the most difficult in which to find one's way. The snowstorm that came up shortly after Mr. Cruickshank was last seen by members of the party would, they assert, make it almost impossible for a man to locate landmarks. Expert trackers and guides of the district have often become lost in snowstorms in the region.

The camp where Mr. Cruickshank and his party are making their headquarters is located on a small lake about six miles from the settlement of Mineral. The lake is in a triangle formed by three mountain peaks. These peaks are landmarks by which hunters find their way back to camp.

Santa Anans Own Camp
The country is covered by lava beds, making it easy for one to get lost whenever the peaks are obliterated by fog or storm. Santa Anans using the camp have always understood that if any member of the party got lost he should do down any stream he Mineral.

FIVE AMERICAN BANKERS BELIEVED SAFE NEAR MEXICO UPRISING

BANDITS LOOT HUNTERS OF MUNITIONS

Fears for Safety of Group Quieted by One's Telegram

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Oct. 15. (P)—Five American bankers, missing in strife-torn Sonora, Mexico, today were believed by officials here to be safely continuing a hunting expedition in the rugged hills.

The killing of two town officials by a roving armed band yesterday and the report another official had been slain led to fears for the safety of the Americans, whose guns and ammunition were reported seized by Mexican raiders.

Meanwhile, a telegram received from Joseph Durrell by his wife in Scarborough-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., related that the party is safe outside the revolutionary zone. The message was dated yesterday at Casas Grandes, Chihuahua, Mex., after being relayed by pony from Sonora. It said: "We are safe at the Farnsworth ranch, which is located far from the revolutionary zone and we will continue with the hunt as originally planned, returning late in October."

Reveals Danger
Arthur D. Norcross, New York publisher, first revealed the hunters might be in danger.

He named the missing men as J. H. Durrell, vice president of the National City Bank of New York; James Bruce of the Chase National Bank, New York; Lee Paul and Dr. W. S. Fulton, Wheeling, W. Va., and Jack Durrell, San Francisco representative of the Chase National bank.

When he arrived by plane in New York last night, Norcross said he was certain the five men were safe.

The hunting party, he said, was held up by Mexican rebels Oct. 8. "All their guns and ammunition were taken, but they were released and sent on in the Sierra Madre mountains to continue their trip."

In Same Mountains
Norcross had been on a hunting trip in the same mountains.

"I know they went on after the holdup, and I know they are safe," he said.

Norcross said the Durrell party sent word of their plight by a hunter to his mountain hunting camp.

"They asked me to send pack horses and guides and bring them to my camp. Durrell also wanted to get a telegram to his wife, telling her they were safe."

"I sent two guides, a couple of Mexicans and 18 horses. The hunters arrived at the camp late at night on Oct. 9. I didn't even see them."

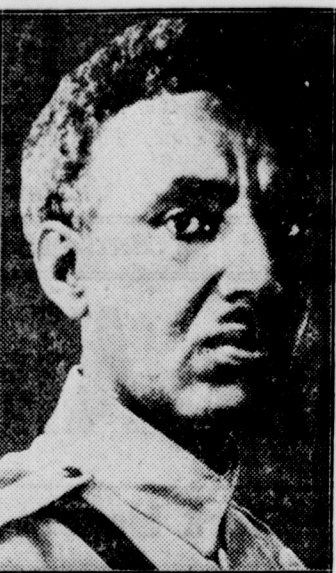

"I was getting ready to leave when the Durrell party arrived in Sonora."

He said the hold-up men "were not bandits at all. They were high type Mexican ranchers and cowboys taking part in a localized rebellion."

tion. You can always get farther by cooperation than by going your own lonely way."

Roland D. Flaherty, secretary of the farm bureau, said that, "We have always felt that in this county, where it is hard to draw a line between city and county interests, many city leaders have not realized the importance of taking a county-wide viewpoint. Such a policy might help to bring about better cooperation in the future."

Alex Brownridge, who made the motion for adoption of the policy yesterday, said today:

"Since this is the largest city in the county, I have always felt that just as a matter of good will we should take part in events in other cities. Orange county is really a small county in area and anything that takes place in the county is of value and interest to other parts of the county. Such a policy should do a lot to create good feeling when matters come up affecting the whole county."

which followed the rain will allow ranchers to salvage the nuts. Nearly all beans in the county have been harvested, it was reported, and those exposed to the rain can be dried out and threshed later.

Los Angeles, beach towns and sections in the surrounding foothills also were drenched last night, while heavier storms were reported in Central and Northern California and some snow was reported in the Sierras.

One man, Pete Mulas, 55-year-old sheepherder, was killed by lightning near Robbins, Sutter county. His dog, struck by the same bolt, was found dead beside him in the field where his flock was grazing.

In some portions of the state the storm assumed near-cloud-burst proportions, it was reported, with an automobile submerged by six feet of water in a highway subway near Red Bluff. Six passengers in the machine were res-fiercest fighters of the empire, will pass through Addis Ababa this week for review by the emperor.

These included 50,000 shock troops under Ras Mulgueta, the minister of war and commander-in-chief of the northern forces, arriving here today.

There are also 35,000 men under Ras Getachew Abata, the governor of Kaffa, whose father was one of the great heroes of the Ethiopian victory of 1896 at Adowa.

There are 40,000 more coming in under the command of Dedjazmach Habte Mariam, the governor of the province of Lekeppi, who wears half moon earrings as a sign of his elephant hunting prowess.

Mariam is rich in gold and elephants which his province produces in abundance.

30,000 More Troops
Besides these come 30,000 under Bitwoded Makenen Demissie, the governor of Wallega province and a nephew of the emperor.

These warriors are children of the Adowa heroes and are known as ferocious fighters. Many of them are so unlettered that they never heard of America, the League of Nations, airplanes, wireless, tanks or telephones. Some of Mulgueta's tribesmen expressed astonishment at seeing white men.

"We are at war. What are you doing here?" they exclaimed, apparently classing all whites with Italians.

Their chiefs, remembering the emperor's admonition to treat all foreigners kindly, reproved these sons of the deserts and mountains when they attempted to molest foreigners or jammed the butts of rifles against the latter's automobiles.

Even the tribesmen's horses and mules, unaccustomed to white faces and the city's traffic, stampeded when they entered the capital.

Ethiopia today received the first arms allowed by the league's rescinded embargo when 30,000 foreign rifles arrived at Jijiga. Additional shipments are expected from Berbera, which led to a fear that Italian airmen will attempt to land at Berbera-Jijiga road.

Receipt of newspaper dispatches from Asmara led authorities to admit the deserting of Haile Selassie Gussa, who was condemned as a national traitor. Reports of other desertions are current, but unconfirmed. Ethiopians asserted that Mussolini is spending millions of lire in attempts to buy off Ethiopian overlords and generals.

The government denied reports of a revolt at Gojjam. It also said that many members of the Jewish Falasha tribe, numbering 75,000, who are generally averse to war are reportedly flocking to the colors.

Exiled from the fatherland centuries ago, the tribe leaders declare they appreciate the value of liberty and consequently are prepared to sacrifice themselves in order to escape the common enemy which professes to civilize while bombing their women and children.

(Previous reports from the Italian military headquarters at Addis Ababa said Count Galeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Premier Mussolini, and two other pilots of his "Death or Glory" squadron flew south of Makale and bombed an Ethiopian ammunition dump, drawing rifle fire but escaping unscathed.)

However, until such a petition is presented, I do not believe that the board is in any position to call for another election."

pointed at two of the next objectives of the Fascist forces—the strategic city of Makale and the vital railroad—followed a call by Emperor Haile Selassie for an increased army to wage a holy war for recapture of Aksum.

Ethiopians asserted the Italians were sporadically bombing Gerlogubi, on the southern front, killing women and children. They reported that the Italians were advancing from the south by the Webbe Shihell valley, a direct path into the heart of Ethiopia toward Addis Ababa.

Over two of Ethiopia's most strategic sites, the cities of Harar and Diredda, Italian scouting planes spread fear of further air attack.

Weeping openly at news of the peaceful occupation of Aksum by the Fascist forces on the northern front, Emperor Haile Selassie personally instructed the abuna, or bishop of the empire, that the holy war must be proclaimed. The abuna, joining the emperor in tears, promised to spread word of Aksum's fall throughout the land, urging the Coptic Christian churches to rouse the nation.

Aksum, ancient capital of the empire, is to Ethiopians what Mecca is to Mohammedans.

CHAMBER HEADS ADVOCATE OIL INJUNCTION TRIAL DELAYED

The Santa Ana chamber of commerce Monday forged a new link of friendliness and good-will with other communities of Orange county. The directors of the chamber adopted a policy of favoring this city's participation in all public events such as the Armistice day parade and civic affairs promoted by neighbor cities.

"We should be in every event of that kind, if only for a gesture of good-will," said W. H. Spurgeon, president of the chamber, expressing the desire of the chamber to foster continued friendliness between Santa Ana and other communities.

The motion that Santa Ana should take part in all such events was made by Alex Brownridge and included authorization of the appointment of a committee to confer with the city council in regard to the Armistice day parade.

The committee will investigate the possibility of the city helping to defray expense of an entry in the parade.

A letter from the American Legion post at Anaheim inviting the chamber to participate in the parade precipitated the discussion. The letter said that patriotism will form the theme of this year's demonstration.

Another feature of Armistice day was brought to the board's attention by Herbert P. Rankin. He recalled that business houses of Orange county have been urged to remain closed all day on Armistice day, but that in recent years they have closed only for two hours during the parade. Stores at Long Beach and Los Angeles remain open throughout the day, he said, and would take considerable business from Orange county if its stores were closed all day.

Trial of injunction suits started by six oil companies in the Huntington Beach area to prevent production of a state quota and padding of wells was continued Monday until Nov. 18 by Judge G. K. Scovel in superior court in response to a stipulation between attorneys for the oil company and Carl B. Sturzenacker, chief of the division of state lands, and other state officials.

The suits were started last July by the Wilshire Oil company, Fortuna Petroleum Corporation, Windsor Oil company, Venton Oil company, Petrol Corporation and the Ambassador Petroleum company. Injunctions were sought after the state had established quotas on wells tapping the state-owned tidelands pool at Huntington Beach, and more than 20 wells were padlocked on state orders.

In the suits the oil companies declared that the quotas were fixed through dictation of two major companies that threatened to start a price war if allowable production from the tidelands pool was not curbed.

PARIS, Oct. 15. (P)—Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow announced today that she expects to become a mother next February or March.

For the Living

TODAY, a bouquet to:
MARTIN G. MURRAY, Huntington Beach postoffice clerk, who not only has the courage to try to guess what the weather man is planning, but also comes right out and makes his predictions public. Mr. Murray has scheduled the first rain for tomorrow.

MORE ABOUT PETTICOAT

by to come in and have a cup of coffee. The late Hal Forrest, long-time New York newspaperman, was the first customer. Word spread that 4 o'clock was a good time to get away from business for an hour's chat and cup of coffee at the Sandwich Mill.

We call it the Amen Corner after the one in New York. Mr. Cuprien who has been dubbed "The Kingfish" said, "What anyone says here, the rest of us 'amen.' We're all good fellows and never go away mad from the discussions."

Women and scandal are the only subjects the "ameners" say they never talk about. Murmurs of city bids, Ethiopia, and a mother just home from China with a lot of Shanghai to talk about, were in the air around me.

The Air Gets Blue
"You should see this place in winter, when it's raining outside, when all the doors are shut, and we start talking and smoking in here. The air just gets blue," Mr. Cuprien said, not specifying whether he meant the smoke or the cause of the blue air.

I think they really let me in because they hoped I was a month of May child. Not long ago a kindly frau brought in a cake to celebrate the birthday of her spouse. That started the tradition of treating the rest of the club whenever a member had an anniversary.

"And we have one for every month except May," the Kingfish said wistfully.

Just One Boss
There's only one boss of the club, which now has some 20 members, and that's the artist, Cuprien. He has the seat in the far corner where he can get out his long pipe from his puttees, where he carries it, light up and not have it too much in the way. Norman-French by descent, his rotund tummy and twinkling eyes were 11 years in Europe where he did concert singing. He writes music and plays a piano, all in addition to his vocational talent, his painting.

"Do you still paint?" I asked foolishly.

Ah, Ha! A Pun
"No, I paint still," he punned. Returning to the Amen Corner, he said: "You know, I buy 'em the first cup of coffee, and then after that, they have to buy their own. I get a commission on them," he said with a knowing look.

"But some of them drink beer or coca cola, or even milk," he scoffed.

Attendance That Counts
Attendance decides whether your name can go on the scroll which A. M. Baldwin of Coast Patrol fame carved for the corner. Pictures of the members have been hung on the wall with epitaphs for each inscribed by Jim Hutchings of the Sandwich Mill.

By the time the hour hand came round to 5 on the Kingfish's gold watch, the group had just about disbanded. Shipbuilder, Williams put out his comfortable-looking pipe, and called Don Wilkie, former secret service man, who gives the group first-hand information on Ethiopia from his travels there, finished off a conversation and hopped into his car. Art Peterson, editor of the South Coast News, had already put away his cigar holder which completed his elegant grooming and gone back to his typewriter.

"The Messiest People"
"Well, I'm afraid we didn't perform very well for you today," the Kingfish said. "But you never can tell about us. Sometimes a good political question will get us off to heavy battle, and sometimes we just bally."

And that left only Adella, the four-and-a-half foot waitress, who had come in to clean up, and me. "They're the messiest people," she confided. "They spill cream and sugar and ashes all over the tables and floor. But they're a pretty good sort," she sighed.

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

MADE two discoveries today—just a day late for Skinny's Columbus Day celebration.

The first was that the Anaheim police department has named their cat.

They call her Miranda.

The second is that Miranda is going to the hospital.

I was afraid to Winchell around too much, and so all I could learn was that preparations have been made for her to go to a dog and cat hospital in Anaheim. That's all the police would say about their pet. Intend to ask Chief Jim Bouldin for a more thorough explanation later.

In case you don't know, Miranda is a sort of scruffy feline, adopted last spring by the police. Since then she's been the pet—or pest—of the department. I've asked every member of the force to tell me the nemesis of the frisky creature, but until today have been unsuccessful.

Learned this news from one of the members of the force while he listened to a radio program. Took care of customers, talked to friends, kept one ear pointed toward the telephone, and juggled three oranges.

Accomplished people, these policemen.

TAKE the Fullerton department, for instance.

There we find Johnny Trezise and Roy Mills, life-savers.

Some time ago the pair gained some fame when they participated in a thrilling rescue at Anaheim Landing.

They've been at it again.

Last week, we hear, they saved the lives of two women who were in danger of being swept to sea by a rushing tide as they were boating at the Landing. Roy saw the couple as they were being carried toward the Pacific Electric bridge, changed his regular clothing to bathing trunks and swam to the rescue, later being joined by John, who aided in bringing the victims to shore.

Lots of orchids to those two, but we're still wondering how, and when, Roy changed his clothes.

WHEN you have lots of time and are returning from Newport Beach, make the trip via the back road, which follows Newport Harbor as far as it can be followed.

The road leaves the state highway just opposite the entrance to Balboa Island, and takes the traveler on a winding journey between chalk-white cliffs and beside the beautiful—but smelly—waters of the upper bay.

The last time we made the trip the road was full of chukcholes, but now a coating of oil has made traveling a pleasure. Low tide is the best time to make the trip, for then can be seen all the various crawling, wiggling and swimming creatures found in the bay's waters. If you are adventuresome and aren't afraid of a little mud, interesting investigations may be made regarding the home life of the jackknife or razor clam and the ever-present crabs. They're present in droves.

Toward the head of the bay one may find hundreds of cranes in various and assorted sizes. At least, if we remember our schooling, they're cranes—and we don't mean something that people use for constructing buildings and bridges, either.

The birds are a solid white, except for their beaks, which are sometimes yellow and sometimes black, and their legs, which may be yellow and may be muddy.

THEY seem to stand in rows, except for a few individualists, who perch wherever they please. They don't seem to be very busy at any time, merely surveying their kingdom in apparent indifference to what may come. They watch passing cars without any apparent worry, unless the car stops, and then they're away as fast as they can go, which isn't very fast, if anyone should ask.

As you can gather, their pickup isn't anything to brag about. In flight there's no picture of beauty, even for the most enthusiastic. But when those birds start to glide, before resuming their usual posture of sleepy indifference, with one leg tucked under a wing, they make a beautiful picture. Perfect grace is apparent in every line, as they sweep in for a two-point landing. Then, just as they reach the ground, two lean and unbeautiful feet stretch out, clawing at the mud, and spoil the whole picture.

And, the minute they stop gliding and start maneuvering for a landing, a gigantic Adam's-apple seems to distort each and every swan-like neck. Watch 'em sometime.

Anyway, it's a nice drive, along the bay. The road finally ends alongside the golf course on Newport boulevard. Try it out when you want to crane your necks at something different.

WE'VE joined the "It's Our Fault" club.

Yesterday we printed an item about Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Ormsby and Mrs. Attridge at Costa Mesa—how they congregate every Monday morning at 11 o'clock to receive copies of their respective home-town papers.

BOARD SEEKS FAST WORK ON SCHOOL

Workers May Go on 40 Hour Week in Place Of 30, Is Plan

As a result of the evacuation of several of the Santa Ana High school buildings, an attempt is being made to speed up construction of the schools' administration building. Last night the board of education authorized City Superintendent of Schools Frank Henderson to communicate with the state department of building reconstruction, asking them to allow men on the job to work 40 hours per week instead of 30.

Under the present setup, a 30-hour week is the limit. It was said last night that by increasing the number of hours of work, the building could be completed nearly six weeks ahead of schedule. Mr. Henderson said that the move was made necessary as the result of the housing problem now facing the high school plant.

Miss Nellie Mai Chapman, who has been engaged as a part-time teacher in the Santa Ana schools, was elected to a full-time position as an elementary teacher last night. Mr. Henderson informed board members that her work had proved satisfactory, and that she would be assigned to teach in the elementary schools.

Members of the board last approved a suggestion by George Newcom, business manager of the board, that insurance on the vacated buildings be discontinued. Mr. Newcom told board members that the old science building had been insured for $32,000 and the old administration building for $74,000. He estimated that a saving of $270 would be made annually by discontinuing the insurance. The saving represents the amount of the premium.

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: By a happy, but not unlikely, chance Emily Barnes has run away from her husband on their wedding night and landed in Lookout Sanitarium, under the care of Dr. Christopher Warde. Emily had been forced into the marriage by parental kindness, Edwin Barnes' perseverance, and lack of anything better to do. But she is on the verge of a nervous breakdown, and Dr. Warde plans to keep her at least a couple of weeks in the Sanitarium. He asks where she will go when she leaves.

Chapter XX SHOCK FOR EDWIN

"I haven't gotten that far," Emily confessed.

"Of course not. There hasn't been time. We have to take one problem at a time."

It was heavenly, she thought suddenly, to have someone discuss your future without mentioning duty or responsibility. To have someone ask you, as if it were the simplest thing in the world, what you wanted to do next.

"I'd like to get a job somewhere. And be independent for a while."

His eyes twinkled sympathetically. "Then we'll get a job," he assured her stoutly. "Any special sort of job in any special place?"

"I have a friend in the advertising department of a big Birmingham store. I wanted to go there, once."

"Do you still want to go there?"

"Yes," she was faint with relief. "Dr. Warde must be the Rock of Gibraltar."

"There's one slight drawback," he was thinking of the quality of Emily's clothes and luggage. "Beginners get starvation wages in that line."

She remembered with a surge of gratitude the few stocks her father had given her from time to time. They had never seemed particularly important until now.

"I could manage until I was earning more. I have a little money."

"Then it looks to me," he said cheerfully, "as if we were all set. Suppose you write the friend to-day, and by the time you're ready to leave we can have it all arranged."

He was glad the job was in Birmingham because he knew several people of importance there. He knew people of importance in a great many places.

"You think I ought to stay here a while?" She hoped he would say yes. This place had come to be sanctuary, and she didn't want to relinquish the Rock of Gibraltar until she had Charlotte again.

"I do," he said promptly. "For about two weeks." He didn't tell her how close she had come to mental and physical disaster. He hoped she would never find out.

She smiled her relief and he grinned the comfortable, companionable grin. Then he rose.

"It would be a good idea for you to get outside for a couple of hours. We've got a gorgeous porch and a more gorgeous view, and in case that fails I'll see that you have something to read." And with another comforting grin he left her.

In his office once more Dr. Warde sent for Edwin, who was waiting as he had waited for most of two days. Edwin sat down and listened, like a condemned man, to the verdict.

"She's very much better," Dr. Warde said kindly, "but it's been a pretty close shave."

"Could I see her?"

Dr. Warde's heart ached for him. He sometimes wished that he didn't take his cases so much to heart, and yet that was the reason, perhaps, why he had gotten so far at the age of thirty-six.

"I don't believe it's wise." And then, as gently as he could, he told Edwin how things stood.

"Your best chance," he said at last, "is not to crowd her. I think the reason she has rebelled now is because she feels that she has been over-persuaded. When she's perfectly well again she may feel differently about it. Let her go to Birmingham and don't beg her to come back to you. That is," he added experimentally, "if you still want her to."

"I do," Edwin confessed soberly. "I guess I'm a fool, but I can't help it. I've always wanted her, and I suppose I always will."

"Then write her how you feel and let it go at that. All you can do is to hope that this experiment won't be all she expects it to be."

"And what about her mother and father?" Edwin asked wretchedly.

"I'll attend to that." He was looking forward with an almost unholy joy to attending to Frances Felton.

As Edwin rose Dr. Warde eyed him keenly, arrested by a certain suspicion. "Is this your first experience with women?"

Edwin flushed hotly, outraged by the intrusion into so secret a recess of his being, but something in the man's personality checked him. He nodded, reluctantly. Dr. Warde sighed inaudibly.

"In that case," he said casually, "I'd suggest that you discuss the whole question with your physician."

In the street once more, Edwin fumbled blindly for the door of his car. He was trembling all over.

Dr. Warde made his leisurely way to Emily's private corner of the big porch. She gave him a smile of welcome and he thought with pardonable pride how different she was from the still, white ghost who had been brought to him two weeks ago.

He sat down beside her. "So you're leaving us today?"

She nodded, her eyes on the gorgeous panorama below them. The sanitarium was on the crest of Lookout Mountain, and far below it, with the Tennessee curled serpent-like about it, lay the city.

"It seems impossible, but I'll be sorry to leave. It's the most peaceful place I've ever known."

"Just what you needed," he

LIQUOR PROBE BEGINS NOV. 1

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 15. (AP)—With the chairman of the group viewing conditions with skepticism, members of the senate committee studying the liquor situation in the state will hold their first meeting Nov. 1.

Charging that bootlegging interests of prohibition days are operating in similar fashion now, Chairman Ralph E. Swing commented:

"The liquor dispensed and conditions and surroundings under which it is sold and consumed, and its effect upon the present and coming generation, are such that thinking people, even the liberal minded, wonder whether conditions are now better than they were under prohibition."

The committee's investigation will include a study of possible control of the sale of liquor through state liquor stores.

agreed brusquely. He went on. "Your Birmingham train leaves at three, and I thought if you didn't mind I'd drive you down. We can have lunch at the Inn first, and then take our time."

There were several things he wanted to make sure of before he let her go, and he preferred discussing them outside the shadow of his institution.

Emily needed a friend more than she needed a doctor, and because he was a very good doctor he was determined to complete his cure in the role of a friend.

She accepted eagerly. "In that case I'll go pack now, and be ready whenever you want to leave."

"About one, then," he said as he rose.

They had lunch on the terrace of the inn, and having disposed of the business of ordering lunch Dr. Warde went straight to the matter at hand.

"Well," his eyes twinkled, "do you feel equal to going out and engaging in battle?"

She laughed. "Quite. You've made a new woman of me."

"No," he said slowly, "you've done that yourself. And I want you to promise to keep it up. I want you to promise me that you'll forget other people for a while and think about yourself. They can't crowd you if you refuse to be crowded. Hold up your head and laugh at them. After all, it's your life."

She looked doubtful. "I wonder if it is entirely. 'No man liveth to himself.'"

He smiled. "The devil, my child, quotes Scripture to his purpose. You can't give yourself, honestly, to some cause or some person that doesn't deserve, or at least doesn't possess, your devotion, can you?"

She didn't answer, and he went earnestly on. "Don't think I'm a home-wrecker. I'm not. If you find in a man or a year, that you can love your husband, no one will bestow a blessing more quickly."

Emily takes a fling, tomorrow, at a completely new life.

LUST MURDERER IS EXECUTED

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 15. (AP)—Gerald Thompson, who embraced the Roman Catholic religion in the last few days of his life, was executed in the electric chair today for the lust murder of Mildred Hallmark, 19, Peoria.

As one of his last acts, he issued a strange, rambling statement, declaring himself ready to die and urging all to turn to religion for solace and guidance.

He was strapped to the chair at 12:15 a. m. and was pronounced dead officially one minute and 40 seconds later.

BARNETT ACQUITTED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15. (AP)—Bald-headed Vince Barnett, movie comedian, was acquitted early today in municipal court after a second trial on charges of drunkenness. The actor won his case when he reiterated his story that he was merely clowning when two officers sought to arrest him and his wife on the night of July 25 in front of a downtown theater.

ly than I. It would be the happiest, simplest solution. But don't do it, Emily, unless you feel that way about it. Will you promise?"

She was silent for a long time. Then, "I'll try. Harder than I ever tried anything before."

"Good girl," he patted her hand, paternally.

"It's appalling, though," she went on thoughtfully, "what an over-developed conscience can do to you."

"A conscience," Dr. Warde said bitterly, "is a cross to its possessor and a very convenient thing to find in someone else. You can do anything on earth with a person like that, merely by appealing to his conscience."

"I know it. I was raised that way. Mother has a conscience, too, and it's kept her from enjoying all the good things she's ever had."

"Hers," he said sharply, "is an ingrowing one."

They lingered over the luncheon until there was just time to catch the train comfortably. Then they drove in silence to the station.

Dr. Warde, having armed himself with an amusing book and a box of candy, came all the way to her compartment to see that she was comfortably settled. Then he stood looking down at her with the disarming grin.

"By the way, I'm going to be in Birmingham next month at a medical meeting. If you don't mind I'll stop in and see how you're making the grade." His job, he felt, wasn't quite finished.

QUAKE-DAMAGED HIGH SCHOOL SHOP BUILDING TO BE 'SAVED'

REPAIRING OF STRUCTURE APPROVED

Students to Help Make Unit Safe for Class Work, Says Board

Santa Ana High school's shop building, damaged in the earthquake of March, 1933, is to be made safe for temporary occupancy, it was decided last night by the board of education.

The 125 students who are taking shop work, and who for the past two weeks have been unable to continue their studies because the board ordered evacuation of all unsafe structures at the high school, will assist in making the repairs necessary to make the building safe for occupancy.

The board's decision to repair the shop structure, followed a presentation of plans by Lynn Crawford, principal of the high school, and Charles Tibbets, shop instructor.

Work to Cost $4000
Mr. Crawford announced that the plan called for a system of ties, or cross-beams, bolted to uprights which will be placed on both sides of the walls. The plan, he said, has been approved by City Building Inspector Sam Preble. The cost for the work will be less than $4000, said Mr. Crawford.

Mr. Crawford explained that it would be impossible to conduct shop work in the tents that are being used for class room purposes at present.

The motion to sanction the repairs was made by Dr. Margaret Baker, and in substance was as follows: "That we proceed with the repair of the high school shop building as outlined by Mr. Crawford to make it safe for temporary occupancy, in view of the fact that we know of about 125 students who are unable to continue with their shop work."

Only Temporary
It was stressed by the board that the repairs will be of a temporary nature only. This brought up the question as to whether City Building Inspector Preble could inspect certain of the other buildings that have been ordered vacated. Ridley Smith, member of the board, contending that if Mr. Preble's opinion was acceptable in regard to the shop building, board members should be willing to accept it in regard to other buildings.

Dr. Baker said she felt that the shop building did not compare in any way with the other buildings. "In the first place, regardless of what Mr. Preble might say, I would not want to see any children forced to attend classes in those buildings," Dr. Baker said.

Frank Bemus, Pioneer, First Opera House Manager Here, Observes His 80th Birthday

By ELLEN SNEBLEY
If it's a house you want, or a fish for dinner—Frank Bemus knows how to get it for you! Yesterday Mr. Bemus, Santa Ana pioneer whose home for nearly a year has been at Laguna Beach, celebrated his 80th birthday anniversary; but he can still give other Lagunans pointers on how to catch fish, and he hasn't lost the knack of building a house.

"Everything bites on mussels," is his advice to fishermen. Seldom a day passes without several persons coming 'round the Bemus house (which the octogenarian built without help when he was 69) to visit with "Dad Bemus."

He can remember coming to Santa Ana with Mrs. Bemus in '87, 10 years after they were married. His father owned a carriage-making shop in Ohio, and Mr. Bemus opened a carriage repair shop across from the old opera house between Bush and Spurgeon on Fourth street.

On the gala occasion when Madame Helena Modjeska opened the opera house, of which Mr. Bemus was first manager, she stopped his daughter, Hazel Nell, now an art teacher in Santa Ana High school, and patted the little girl gently on the head. Even then, Miss Bemus sensed the magnetic charm of the great tragedienne.

Possibility of his being South Santa Ana's builder faded when the south city plan collapsed with

LIBERALS WIN ELECTION IN CANADA

OTTAWA, Oct. 15. (AP)—Canada's Liberal party, out of office for five years, swept back today into control of the house of commons with the most decisive election victory in the country's history.

The majority of the Conservative government, led by Premier R. B. Bennett, was wiped out by a wave of anti-administration votes.

New Parties Lose Out
New parties made a dismal showing, but in the west the Social Credit group won more than a dozen parliament seats, most of them from Alberta, birthplace of the party.

An incomplete unofficial count showed the Liberals would have the largest house majority any party ever had in Canada. They were assured of 165 seats out of the 245 at stake.

Conservatives Win 41
The Conservatives had won 41, in contrast to the 113 they enjoyed when Parliament was dissolved in August; the Social Crediters 13; the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, a Socialist group new in national politics, 7; the Liberal Progressives 1; the New Reconstructionists party 1; the Independent Liberals 4, and the United Farmer-Laborers 1.

The conservative platform as put forth by Premier Bennett called for a continuance of full tariff protection for Canadian industry and an extensive series of social reforms, including a voluntary pension scheme for all workers over 60 years old. The election drew almost 4,000,000 votes.

Denied Alimony From Wife; Wants Her to Pay Costs

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15. (AP)—Jan Drohojowski, former Polish count who asked for but was denied alimony from Kathryn Drohojowski, Dallas, Tex., heiress, yesterday through his attorney applied for a transcript of the divorce testimony, and cited his wife to show cause why she should not pay the cost of the appeal.

Mrs. Drohojowski was recently granted an uncontested divorce on the grounds of cruelty after Drohojowski walked from the courtroom when his request for alimony was denied by Judge Harry R. Archibald.

LONDON CAN'T 'GO' WITH DR. TOWNSEND

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 15. (AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon has told Dr. F. E. Townsend, author of the Townsend pension plan, that he believed in the principle of old age pensions, but that he "couldn't go along" with the California on his plan.

MONTEREY CRASHES

Dr. Townsend laid his program before the Kansas governor at a conference yesterday. "An old age pension system will be established in Kansas as soon as we're able to work out legal questions with the federal social security board and obtain further information," Landon said. "But, of course, I cannot go along with Dr. Townsend on his plan. However, I wish to pay tribute to him for his sincerity."

SCHOOL DRILLS ARE CLOSE

Slow motion pictures may be needed to decide which school won the fire prevention week contest sponsored by the chamber of commerce. Each school executed a fire drill which was judged by firemen who took motion pictures of the work, it was reported yesterday by John Henderson, of the chamber's fire prevention committee.

The competition was so keen that slow running of the films may be necessary to decide which school won, he said. The Julia Lathrop Junior High school defeated the Frances Willard Junior High school in that division, Mr. Henderson said.

A letter was received by the chamber yesterday from the Santa Monica-Ocean Park chamber of commerce, urging that legislators be asked to work for reduction of state expenditures at the next session of the legislature. The letter was referred to the tax committee headed by Herbert Rankin.

The chamber also decided to become a member of the Santa Ana Community Players organization.

3-WAY PEACE STEP URGED BY HULL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. (AP)—Declaring that the "obsolete and blood-stained instrument" of war cannot cure the world's economic ills, Secretary of State Hull today advocated a three-fold international effort for peace and prosperity.

He called for "simultaneous action of many countries" for:

1. A "vigorous rebuilding of international trade."
2. A "gradual restoration of international monetary stability."
3. An international agreement "upon the organization and principles which will assure that all important raw materials will become available on reasonable terms wherever they are needed."

Mr. Hull's speech, regarded as of much significance, was delivered by radio on the program of the New York Herald Tribune's annual forum on current affairs. His declaration that war cannot achieve the hopes of peoples for a "less difficult and more rewarding" destiny comes at a time when Italian spokesmen are declaring that Italy's need for expansion is one justification for the Ethiopian campaign.

Without mentioning any nation, Mr. Hull declared that when international trade declines "we must expect economic deterioration both here and abroad, unsettlement and fear, and a sense of strain which disposes people to listen to leaders who talk to them in terms of war, and make them dream of a destiny less difficult and more rewarding than their difficult struggle to win a livelihood."

WOMAN'S MURDER STILL MYSTERY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15. (AP)—The mystery shooting of Mrs. Harriet Walke, 29-year-old one-time movie extra, apparently had police investigators stumped today.

Believing the woman, former wife of Norman Walke, screen cowboy, was shot down by would-be purse snatchers as she walked along a street in Van Nuys Monday night, officers sought a trace of a battered roadster believed to have carried the slayers.

Detectives said Mrs. Walke may have been shot and fatally wounded when she resisted the attempted holdup.

The University of California has granted 59,755 degrees and certificates since 1864 when the first class of four was graduated from the old College of California.

'Keep on Thinking' Is Advice of Mrs. Valley to Members of S. A. Ebell Club

Ethiopian Situation Discussed

Delegates, Alternates Chosen for Midyear County Convention

"Unless we are willing to grow more and more, we tend to grow less and less and finally pass away."

Quoting the above from H. G. Wells' new book, "The New America and the New World," Mrs. Jack Valley told Santa Ana Valley Ebell clubwomen in her first 1935-36 lecture at their meeting yesterday afternoon in Ebell clubhouse, about the current Ethiopian-Italian situation and other salient points in world happenings, and urged an alert interest in all happenings.

The business session featured election of 16 delegates and 16 alternates to the Orange county midyear convention Oct. 31 in Buena Park.

Delegates Named
Delegates are Mesdames J. M. Cloyes, Harold Segerstrom, C. F. Crose, F. P. Mead, Dexter Ball, E. D. White, J. S. Smart, F. T. Preble, T. E. Stephenson, S. M. Davis, Arthur May, W. S. Thompson, N. A. Beals, Charles Carothers and J. T. Wilson. Alternates are Mesdames M. B. Wellington, George Raymer, L. A. Chenoweth, E. H. Sharpless, Ralph Smedley, Joe Burke, A. McElenthin, C. C. Violet, C. M. Rowland, W. B. Williams, Herbert L. Miller, Alice Hill Hatch, Cood Adams, C. S. Crookshank and F. P. Jayne.

Other business announcements included the fact that Captain Allan Hancock will not be able to address the club at its next meeting, plans for which will be announced later.

The current events section will meet tomorrow for a benefit party in the clubhouse. Mrs. C. K. Dodds, day nursery committee chairman, announced the benefit party for Monday in the clubhouse.

Explains Award
Mrs. C. V. Davis, junior past president, explained the day nursery award given by Miss Josephine G. Seaman, La Jolla, as the most worthwhile permanent project in a southern district club. The award, a picture, was on display for the day.

Fifth household economics section announced plans for a party in December. Its chairman is Mrs. E. F. Mead. Mrs. Clarence Gustlin announced a meeting of the arts and crafts section for tomorrow at 10 o'clock in the morning in the clubhouse lounge.

Mrs. Albert Harvey reported on ticket sales for the Orange county forum.

Mrs. Fred Rowland, Ebell president, introduced Mrs. Valley, who wore a Napoleonic black fall hat, a smart silver metallic cloth blouse with black bow, a black skirt with the new higher hemline. Mrs. Valley's audience greeted with enthusiasm her return for another season of lecture-reviews in Santa Ana.

"Election Important"
Designating the coming 1936 presidential campaign as the third really important one since the Civil war, Mrs. Valley outlined campaigns of the past with a view to showing that vital issues in an election are submerged in favor of issues with more general mass appeal.

"The late Huey Long," she said, "offered a complete picture from beginning to end, of what a dictatorship is. In the political history of our nation no other man was as shrewd and powerful in his way as Huey Long was." She branded Senator Long's voice as a "timely voice of discontent."

Mrs. Valley predicted that Americans will become "constitution-minded" in the coming election. She then presented the history of the constitution.

Turning to the theme of newspapers, the speaker said that 13 of the 26 European countries have complete newspaper censorship; eight have covert censorship, and only five are free—Great Britain, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

Notably Fair Papers
Quoting the results of a recent survey made by newspaper editors and journalists, Mrs. Valley mentioned as notably fair, courageous and impartial in their presentation of news The Manchester Guardian, the New York Times, the Christian Science Monitor, the Baltimore Sun, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Scripps-Howard newspapers as a whole.

"The crisis today in Europe has a double meaning, for Italy is subdued, it will mean the weakening of one link in the iron ring around Germany, and if she is victorious in her Ethiopian conquest, it will mean the stepping down from power of Great Britain and the consequent breaking of the chain," Mrs. Valley said.

"Two Napoleons"
"Today there are two Napoleons in Europe. The immediate future of Europe belongs to Hitler and Mussolini." The speaker also told of the beginnings of the Italian invasion of Ethiopia in 1935.

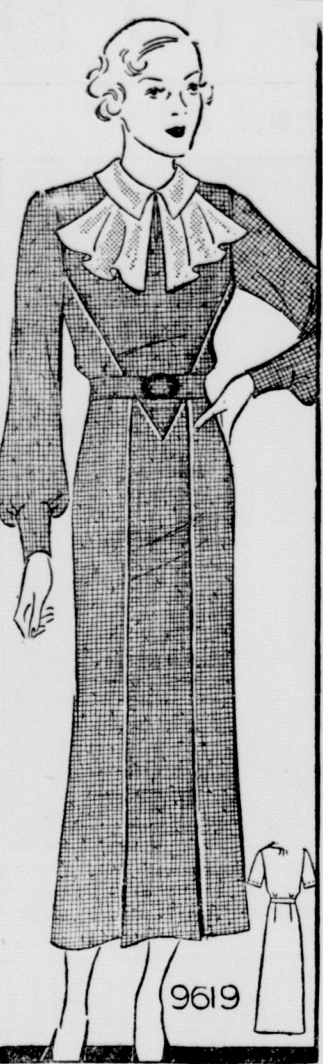

The remainder of her time Mrs. Valley gave to entertaining reviews of the following new books: "The Politician," J. H. Wallis; "Freedom of the Press," George Seligson; "The Case for Manchoukuo," George Bronson Rea; "Burners of Men," Marcel Graule; "Catherine, The Portrait of an Empress," Gina Kaus; "Mary, Queen of Scotland and the Isles," Stefan Zweig; "All Things Are Possible," Lewis Browne; "Lucy Grayheart," Willa Cather; "Fig Tree John," Edwin Corle; "Valley People," Frances Marion; "Strait Gate," Ruth Comfort Mitchell; "Ripe Breadfruit," Armine Von Tempel; "The Voice of Bugle Ann," MacKinley Kantor; "Hound of Heaven," Sarah Addington.

Those unable to attend are asked to call Mrs. Blanche Hansen, 617-J, or Mrs. Fannie Reeves, 395-R. Others on the committee will be Mrs. Theo Winbiger and Mrs. A. H. Pease.

EBELL SECTION TO DISCUSS PLANTING
"Fall Planting" will be the subject of a talk by John Wilcox Thursday when the Garden section of Ebell club has its regular meeting.

Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock, preceding the lecture.

Mary Stoddard Temper Your Temper Early In Life If You Expect To Be Accepted By The World

Control your temper.

If that advice were more generally heeded, thousands of tragedies would never occur. Blind, unreasoning rage—call it "temporary insanity" if you will—has taken a terrific toll of life.

News dispatches recently told of an Eastern boy, who, enraged because the 18-year-old girl he loved would not marry him, lost his temper and choked her to death. Not long ago a young man, in despair because the girl he adored had lost her love for him, lost his temper and struck her.

Fortunately, that young man recognized his fault and was doing it. I heartily wish him well. The first step in correcting such a fault—or rather vice, for temper is worse than a fault—is to admit it. Then be on guard against it.

The time to correct temper is in children. The earlier a child learns the lesson of self-control, the more firmly disciplined his temper can be. There is no excuse for "tantrums," whether they be outbursts of wrath or just "temperament."

It's all very well to express your own opinions, but as long as we must live in harmony with those about us, it's even more important to keep a firm rein on that unruly monster—temper.

Crafts Leader To Be Heard Tomorrow

Mrs. Frederick J. Schwartz of Monrovia, California Federation of Women's clubs state chairman of arts and crafts, will address Santa Ana Valley Ebell arts and crafts section members tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the clubhouse lounge, Mrs. Clarence Gustlin, section leader, said today.

Mrs. Schwartz will bring a display of craftwork.

Mrs. Gustlin has urged all clubwomen interested in working with the new section to be present tomorrow.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

Do you think concert singers are to be censured for including many popular songs in their radio programs?

Mrs. Louis H. Causley: I think more people can appreciate the modern songs than the very elaborate operatic music. All good music must be written by the old masters; much is being written today.

Mrs. Howard Ryan: I like to hear fine singers interpret the songs everyone knows and enjoys. I don't think they should sing jazz; but it's surely all right for them to sing whatever people in general like to hear.

Mrs. Frank J. Lincoln: I don't think so. It seems as though the radio is turning so much toward opera lately that it's getting almost too heavy. Some operatic music is certainly all right on the singers' programs, but not too much.

LUTHERAN CHURCH IS SETTING FOR MARRIAGE RITES

Miss Ella Bandick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bandick, North Main street, and Ed Schlueter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schlueter, West La Veta street, Orange, were married in St. John's Lutheran church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The bride wore white satin, princess style, with fingertip veil and a wreath of orange blossoms worn by her mother at her wedding. She carried a shower bouquet of white bride's roses, white sweet peas and maidenhair fern, with a gardenia corsage center for her traveling costume.

Her maid of honor was her cousin, Miss Esther Bandick, who wore gold silk crepe, tunic style, and carried gold snapdragons, and orange and yellow pompon dahlias.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. Kai Hedeman, Long Beach, wore a gown of green crepe and carried flowers similar to those of the maid of honor.

Arthur Schlueter was best man, and Walter Bandick, brother of the bride, usher. Palms and baskets of dahlias and chrysanthemums banked the altar, on either side of which candles burned.

William Battenman, organist, accompanied Roman Melchior, Anaheim, in two solos, "O Perfect Love," and "Holy Spirit Breath of Love."

The Rev. William Schlueter, Terra Bella, brother of the bridegroom, officiated.

A reception was held at the home of the bride for the immediate families and wedding party, after which the couple left on a wedding trip. The bride wore a black fall outfit with matching accessories.

On their return they will live in Anaheim, where the bridegroom operates a filling station. The bride was a member of the 1931 graduating class from Orange Union High school.

DICTATORSHIP IS SLAMMED IN PLAY

From the turrets of a perjured courtroom in a fictitious kingdom, Elmer Rice has fired a broadside against all dictatorship, say Santa Ana's who have attended "Judgment Day," current Rice play at the Pasadena Community Playhouse.

Now in its second run at the Playhouse, "Judgment Day" includes in its cast Mischa Auer, film star, Tamara Shayne, opera singer, and others.

Betty Smith Is Complimented At Party

Miss Betty Smith, whose engagement to Norman Paul of Santa Ana was announced last week, was complimented with a gay red'n cream kitchenware shower given last evening by Miss Mary Helen "Mickie" Crozier in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crozier, Balboa.

Falloona cast today were called and spoons provided a decorative theme for the party, at which "whoopie" was played. Everyone received a gift, and Miss Georgia Turner was given high award, a pretty powder box.

The hostess was assisted by her mother and by Miss Ethel Dickerson in serving frappes, cakes and coffee on bright green individual trays at the card tables. Miss Smith then seated herself on a cushion on the floor and unwrapped her shower gifts.

Other guests were Mesdames Ralph Jenkins, George Horton, Francis Norton, Gilbert Meisinger, Quincy L. Hardy, William Jerome, Jr., and C. M. Featherly, and Misses Billie Gabriel, Helen and Loretta Spangler, Catherine Rousseau, Barbara Rowland, Ruth Owens, Betty Wissall and Florence Brownridge.

SINGERS, AHOY! SHIP 'PINAFORE' TO BE GROUNDED

Faced with the prospect of "H.M.S. Pinafore" being grounded for lack of sufficient men aboard the ship, members of Bel Canto's light opera cast today were calling all men singers to the rehearsal tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock in the telephone company recreation hall.

All who have attended previous rehearsals, as well as any individuals interested in singing in "Pinafore," have been urged to be present at tomorrow's rehearsal, since if 20 men are not assembled for work, the production will be abandoned by E. M. Wyatt, Bel Canto director.

Following the dance, members of the two salons returned with escorts to Mrs. Sullivan's for a tanaia buffet supper.

BULLS STILL GRIP STOCK MARKET

List Weathers Heavy Profit-taking as New High Made

By VICTOR EUBANK
NEW YORK, Oct. 15. (AP)—Selective buying in the industrials, communications and specialties kept bullish fires aglow in today's stock market.

The list weathered heavy profit taking in the first hour with gains ranging from fractions to several points. The ticker tape fell in arrears as blocks of several thousand shares changed hands at the start of dealings. Many new highs for the year or longer were recorded. There apparently was as much short covering as fresh short selling.

After the initial rush, activity slowed perceptibly and extreme advances were shaded or cancelled. A little more caution was in evidence as the utilities, rails and steels were inclined to do little more than mark time.

Shares of Western Union spurted 3 points. Air Reduction got up 6. Lowe's, up about 2, was an active performer. Chrysler forged ahead more than a point, along with Auburn, Electric Auto-lite and Spiegel-May-Stern. Fractional improvement was registered by Radio preferred B, American Telephone, Case, Westinghouse, DuPont, Johns-Manville, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward.

Although Union Pacific recovered a point, the other carriers were virtually unchanged. American Can was heavy. The metals sagged.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. (AP)—Led by selected industrials, stocks forged ahead with renewed vigor today, many issues reaching new highs for the year or longer with gains of 1 to 3 or more points.

Heavy profit taking at the start was absorbed with gains at the close. The rails and steels, backward for a while, later joined the climbers. The close was strong. Transfers approximated 2,500,000 shares. Closing prices:

WEIGHT STAMPED ON ANVIL TOTED TO THE SCALES

WEST POINT, Neb., Oct. 15. (AP)—It seems there was an anvil.

"It weighs 100 pounds," said R. M. Kildee, instructor at Smith-Hughes agricultural school here.

"It'll bet it doesn't weigh more than 75," said Warren Simonson, carpenter.

Simonson thereupon carried the anvil from the school basement to the third floor, where scales were reported. It turned out they were on the first floor. The anvil was toted downstairs.

It was weighed. The scales registered 96 pounds.

After returning the anvil to the basement, Simonson sat down to catch his breath. On one side of the anvil he read: "96 pounds."

THEIR BLOOD FOR EDUCATION

YOUNG people who really want an education usually find some way to get it. The Journal so remarked recently, speaking of the situation at the Santa Ana High school where there is some inconvenience pending the erection of temporary quarters to be used in the place of buildings which the board of education considers unsafe.

Now comes the Junior college to the front to prove that purposeful students find a way, if they really want one. The newest means of paying college expenses, it seems, is the sale of student blood for transfusion purposes. Dean Flint told about it in a story in The Journal yesterday. Not much of an appetizer, this subject, of course. But it is rather encouraging to know we have students who really are willing to "give their life-blood" for an education.

This is just one of the several novel ways students have adopted to work their way through school. Others are willing to be your chauffeur, still others will wash windows, mow your lawn, split kindling, work in the flower garden—anything to get together that little money required to supply the cash they must have.

We hear so much these days about unappreciative youth and their shortcomings that it is encouraging indeed to know our boys and girls do place a value on education and do appreciate what their fathers and mothers are trying to do for them. Somehow it gives us a greater faith in the future and makes us realize we do not always understand the youth of this generation when we so readily criticize them.

SHAKESPEARE ON CELLULOID

NEW YORK and London acclaim the premiere of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Hollywood's film production of the Shakespearean fantasy and comedy. And for a number of reasons this is notable.

When London puts its approval on a Shakespearean production of any sort, it means that the British lion has been satisfied in a field where he is more than ordinarily critical. London would have none of John Barrymore's "Hamlet." Yet today it accepts with enthusiasm a celluloid version of Shakespeare made in far-away and barbarous Hollywood. True, The London Times growls a little, thereby fulfilling its obligation to thousands of retired colonels and gaudy squires for whom Shakespeare from Hollywood couldn't be anything but sacrilege.

Another interesting thing about this Hollywood triumph is its debt to two distinguished Germans, Director Reinhardt and the composer, Mendelssohn, whose incidental music contributes to the film's success. Reinhardt cannot work in his native Germany because he is a Jew, and Mendelssohn escapes the same fate only because he is dead. The Hitlerites will not permit his music to be played there. A race that has understood and loved Shakespeare as none other except the English is thereby libeled and shamed before the civilized world.

FARM LAND AND WAR

WHEAT will win the war! Remember that? There is plenty of timeliness in Secretary Wallace's warning not to let what's happening over in Africa run us into another such farm land speculation as that which followed what was started in 1914.

Timely, yes. But we doubt whether the warning will be observed if the price of wheat, which is already rising, keeps on going up, and other farm prices follow. For it is human nature to speculate when a boom is on, whether the boom be in Florida lots or Goldman Sachs or Iowa soil.

But it may be of some value in a cautionary sense, to the extent of restraining speculative impetuosity and at least delaying the evil day, to recall now that the recent mortgage riots in the farm belt stem right back to the World War.

Wheat went above two dollars, cotton around 40 cents, and other prices more or less in ratio. The best farm land got to selling as high as $500 an acre, in, for example, Wallace's home state. Some 50 million acres hitherto uncultivated, and once locked to mother earth with hoops of grass, was plowed up and put to use, much of which we have wiped out of our eyes during those dust storms in the last few years.

Finally came the sudden end of the big bulge. Peace was restored. Battlefields went back into agriculture. Millions who had been fighting returned to work. And we don't have to look any farther to find the birthplace of the farm problem which plagued Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt, which finally brought forth the AAA, and made the overenthusiastic potato grower of 1935 dream of the jail house.

War is mother of many more things than are dreamed of in our philosophy.

STEADY BOYS!

THE Associated Press dispatches indicate that the Republicans have opened fire on President Roosevelt. That is, they think they have. At least they are firing at the place where they saw him last. Tomorrow he may be somewhere else and their fire will be wasted.

In dealing with the most peripatetic politician this country has seen since Andrew Jackson's day—a statesman who can jump from precipice to precipice back to the original crag again—it may be just as well for the Republicans to hold their fire.

Let 'em save their ammunition and lay down their barrage when he is nailed fast to some kind of a fairly definite program in the next campaign.

That was a wise military tactician who cried to his men: "Don't fire boys until you see the whites of their eyes!"

Whimsies

of O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The largest privately owned individual acreage east of the Mississippi lies, curiously enough, between New York and Philadelphia. It is the famous Batsto estate of the Joseph Lippincotts, members of the old Quaker book publishing house in the City of Brotherly Love.

While belonging to the younger generation of Lippincotts, they still cling to "thee" and "thou." The estate comprises 148,000 acres in New Jersey, 50 miles from Philadelphia. An idea of its magnitude is gained by the fact, three rivers run through it.

The parcels of land were gotten together into its vast whole years ago by a far-seeing member of the Lippincott clan, to generate hydro-electric power for Philadelphia. Despite the immensity it is practically self supporting, enough revenue coming from the cranberry crops to pay taxes.

The ancient manor is unchanged, with tower on top, where a feudal Wharton could eye the surrounding goings on through his telescope. Even the hand forge that made ammunition during the Revolutionary war remains. Retiring guests carry oil lamps. Cooking is done by wood.

Eddie Rickenbacker in early days of the war was General Pershing's secretary, although his heart was set on flying. General Pershing told him the best thing Rickenbacker could do was to get his general to and from places as quickly as possible. So one sunny morning Eddie zoomed the general up to the front lines at a 75-miles-an-hour clip. And the general immediately transferred him to flying.

Erte, the artist who draws those bizarre covers for Harper's Bazaar—shoot, I mean Bazaar, is considered the youngest looking man for his years on either side of the Atlantic. Although he has been drawing for the Bazaar 18 years, he looks today a youth of not more than 25. His color contrasts are expressed even in his workshop. He has one studio of solid and vivid red where he works in a house robe of black lace.

Among New York's pronounced movie fans is the octogenarian editor of Scribner's, Mr. Bridges, who attends three movies a week. Topping him is the youthful editor, Herbert Mayes, who sees a picture every evening. James Montgomery Flagg is among the late audiences, dropping in around 11, and Ewing Galloway, the photographer, is a midnight visitor, being one of the enthusiasts who often works until that hour at his office.

A diversion that is the author's meat may prove the book publisher's poison. That is the running of a full length novel in a magazine. Cosmopolitan is doing it, starting off with a Kathleen Norris mystery, as is also the Red Book. Several others are reported planning to follow.

Newspaperdom's shyest editorial executive is becoming in retirement one of the most publicized members of his craft. He is Carr Van Anda, so long the news chief of the New York Times. Born in Georgetown, O., and moving in the usual migratory graduations of the roamer, he eventually landed on the Times, where he remained 30 years as managing editor. He was not known to the public and to few newspapermen outside his own staff. Yet perhaps no editor is held up to students of journalism as the news genius of his time so proudly as he.

He built up his staff in the role of an easy boss. Once hired by him, a man was rarely dismissed. And never for boozing.

Another white-haired war horse of the magazine shops is the editor emeritus, John S. Phillips. At 75 he is considered one of the agile editorial minds and his advice is sought by leading editors when they strike manuscript snags. He reads practically every short story and serial published and knows the strength and weaknesses of almost every man in the writing game. He is as vigorous for his years as the average man at 50.

Postcard from Yuma, Ariz.: "I just stepped out of a plane here with the only girl and got off a little more which I thought, if I do say, rather good. But she topped it by remarking: 'The old sense of Yuma, eh baby?'"

FARMERS WIN BOUNTIES

BRUSSELS, (AP)—As compensation for high production prices for home grown cereals Belgian farmers, it is announced, are to receive a premium of $7.20 for each acre of wheat grown in 1934. A premium of $2.80 is to be paid for each acre of spelt, rye, barley or oats.

COTTON PACES CACAO

RIO DE JANEIRO, (AP)—Exports of cacao, the cocoa bean, have kept step in Brazil with cotton in a steady rise since the depths of 1929. Official figures show a climb from 1,080,000 sacks in 1929 to more than 1,650,000 expected for this year.

EVERYDAY MOVIES

By Denys Wortman

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—When a negro in Clarksburg, Miss., stole three bales of cotton out of a federal warehouse, one year ago, no one dreamed that it might develop into one of the most trying problems recently presented to the supreme court.

Although given no publicity, the case—United States vs. Hastings—is due to be argued this week and is calculated by New Deal lawyers to tie the "Nine Old Men" up in knots. If they find against the United States they cause chaos to the cotton marketing system of the South. If they support the United States, they must virtually reverse their own findings in the Schechter sick chicken case which knocked the props from under the NRA.

Nub of the question is: What is interstate commerce? It arose when Fred Hastings, a white man, allegedly induced a negro to steal three bales of cotton from the federal warehouse. Action was brought in the federal courts for a violation of the federal warehousing act.

The negro was sentenced to eight months. Hastings then fled a demand on grounds of unconstitutional, and the district court sustained him.

Hastings' argument is that cotton in a warehouse is not in interstate commerce. In the famous Schechter case it was argued that chickens sent to New York markets also were not in interstate commerce. In the Schechter case the chickens had arrived. In Hastings case the cotton had not begun to move.

However, lawyers generally agree that warehousing is intimately tied up with the stream of interstate commerce. Under the federal warehousing act, receipts totaling approximately $1,000,000,000 are handled. Most of these are negotiable and are given the same care as federal currency.

Banks lend on them and brokers trade on them. Should the supreme court toss the law out, it would seriously disrupt the trade of the South, making it difficult to borrow on cotton and other staple crops, except at high interest rates.

The federal warehousing act was enacted during the days of Woodrow Wilson, has been operating 19 years and has been sustained by the courts in five previous cases. If the supreme court knocks it out now, New Dealers claim that the entire South will support the President in his "horse-and-buggy" criticism of the court.

BANQUET PROJECT

WPA officials have decided to add a dictionary to their office equipment. It happened this way.

In a list of work-relief projects received from Louisiana was an entry calling for a "banquet." Insignificant at the idea of calling for public money to be spent on a dinner, they blue-penciled the proposal.

But a sharp-eyed engineer, who had worked in the bayou state, checked them. He sent out for a dictionary. It said: "BANQUET, a banquet, the footway of a bridge when raised above the carriage-way, a sidewalk."

Further inquiries of the Louisiana WPA director disclosed that he wanted money for a sidewalk, not a meal.

AN INCONSPICUOUS item in the last war department appropriation probably will result in one of the most fascinating stories of adventure and romance ever to come out of a prosaic act of congress.

It appropriated $10,000 to be paid to Vilhjalmur Stefansson, famous Arctic explorer, in compensation for a book to be written by him of his experiences in the Arctic, particularly in the Northwest Passage. Stefansson is the only man who has gone through this hazardous strait, and a detailed account of that area is expected to be of great benefit to the army in charting future air routes.

Military and air strategists consider this vast Arctic waste the coming short cut to Europe. But to date, it is about the least known area in the world.

President Roosevelt recently wrote to Stefansson, asking him to proceed with the book.

ALCOHOL TAXES

THE GOVERNMENT is going to have a tougher time than it likes to pretend collecting back taxes from the big alcohol and other companies which it alleges diverted alcohol during prohibition days.

The Glidden company, from which the government is trying to collect about three million, already has won out in two major court cases. Glidden did not "clean" the alcohol or divert it to bootleg channels and is not charged with "fraudulently" selling and with "knowledge" that the alcohol would be used for beverage purposes.

This the Glidden company not only denies, but so far has succeeded in backing up its contention. First in the district court of northern New York and then in the sixth circuit court of appeals, it threw the government for heavy losses.

However, the justice department has persisted. It has now applied for a hearing before the supreme court which may or may not be granted. The government regards this as a test case for the collection of about 20 million of back alcohol taxes from other companies.

Remarkable Remarks

There is more talk about war in this country than in all the newspapers of Europe.—Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state.

What this country needs is the NRA—National Religious Awakening.—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, prominent Methodist.

We must bring the Republican party back to the people. The people are thinking more of issues than of men.—Frank E. Gannett, newspaper publisher.

I've seen the rise and am now seeing the decline of the American theater. It's frightfully sad. I've known the time when 400 companies were starting out from New York every fall.—Charles T. Dazey, dean of American playwrights.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

OCT. 15, 1910

ATLANTIC CITY. — The long deferred attempt of Walter Wellman, journalist and aeroplane explorer, to cross the Atlantic in a dirigible airship was begun at an early hour today when the big balloon America left Hangar and disappeared to the eastward in a heavy fog. Engineer Melvin said before the start, "We won't come back until we have had a try at Europe."

The gas bag is shaped like a cigar, is 228 feet long, and in width, 52 feet. There are sufficient provisions on board to last one month. It has a passenger car 15.6 feet long, three gasoline engines, one donkey and two for motive power, of about 80 horsepower. Beneath the car is a boat about 27 feet long in case of a wreck.

Tomorrow the Los Angeles Athletics will play the Santa Anas at Hawley park. The Athletics is a reorganized team from the Southern State league which has just closed its summer season. Tobe Raby will be umpire.

Rain has come, and farmers will now get busy, for more is certain to follow, and those who go ahead with faith that there will be sufficient rainfall to mature crops will be the farmers who get through first, and who will have the best chance of "coming through" with credits on the right side of the ledger.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Conduct In the Raw at the Capital

NOT THE least feature of the New Deal is the tendency for much froth and foam of modern life to push upward toward respectability. The arrival of the Roosevelt administration was ushered in with solemn assurances that the money-changers would be banished and the national temples would be cleansed.

But the jingling coins continue to clank their music and blare-eyed justice still totters along.

SORDID hands and tawdry motives have always tried to worm their way into federal power and cast their sickly hue over the whole national fabric. Petty politicians have always tried to stretch themselves into the larger field. Commonness, raw and unashamed, elbows its way into the gilded ballrooms.

So it was when Jackson's hordes, a century ago, tramped with muddy boots into the White House, slopped their rum all over the damask furnishings, and nearly smothered Old Hickory with their demonstrations of affection.

So it has been with each political revolution in our history—with Jefferson, 1801; with Harrison, 1841; with Lincoln, 1861; with Cleveland, 1885; with Harding, 1921.

THE ROOSEVELT landslide of three years ago brought another wave of upthrusting commonness in federal power. Tammany tactics and manners were carried from Albany to Washington. The tiger had long eyed the prospect of action in a bigger field.

With grinning relish he stalked across the portico, neglecting to wipe his muddy feet before socking them down on the polished floors.

THE PRESIDENT himself has led the wave of commonness, with a canny ability in keeping the common touch. He rode into office as the champion of repeal with all its sinister brood. Neither he nor his family apparently have tried to sustain the usual decorum which has marked this exalted position.

Liquors, cigarettes, hasty divorces and hastier re-marriages, fast driving and careless regard for traffic safety, manifest efforts to gain publicity, giving vent to ill-considered interviews, and out-poured cheapness is leaving a smear on the greatest office within the gift of the people.

OF COURSE, this whole tendency toward cheapness is thrusting up its ugly head all around us. Old restraints and decencies have been thrown aside. Rudeness, crudeness, rawness, smartness are mounting to respectability, and the President's family helps to make them so.

A young lady of my acquaintance found out that a car will stop when it hits the one in front with the brakes locked. It'll do it every time. Oh, well, what's one more bump of ten? At that And then the automobile accessory stores have more bumpers, and there are mechanics and mechanics, and anyway one good bump deserves another.

Notice where some eastern high-brow is boasting of having a chauffeur who sports a monocle. Huh, wonder if they are buying them on payments, too.

Down North Main street there are so many signs where the schools are located. If an autoist stopped to read all of 'em there would be a congestion. At that I'm in favor of 'em. Anything to give the pedestrian a break, especially the boys and girls who are compelled to negotiate those crossings during the day. Yesterday morning we had painters and Patrolman George Boyd, and maybe some authorities, my ops failed to discover. But at the same time we also had a few hundred pupils going back and forth and I favor all possible protective measures from traffic accidents. It is an interesting study to watch the automobile driver. One will observe the law with full consideration for life and limb, and the rules governing operation. Another will snarl like a hyena because he has to stop. Others try and pull a fast one and go through. That's when Boyd starts. And like the Canadian mounted police, George gets his man.

Lemon Juice

Howdy, folks. We are glad the baseball season is over. If we weren't getting tired of having Little Homer's companions knock home runs through our front window.

What this world needs is an unbreakable glass window for people who live next to a vacant lot on which small boys play baseball.

WORLD OF SCIENCE

Prof. Marmaduke W. Rhubarb, noted El Toro scientist, for years has been trying to discover why it is that man can use up a whole box of matches unsuccessfully trying to start a campfire and then return home and set his office on fire by dropping a cigaret butt into his waste-basket. Prof. Rhubarb has reached no conclusion.

Some day we expect to visit an insane asylum and meet the man who designed these new hats women are wearing.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. (Skinny) SKIRVIN

Out for the customary matutinal but, on the wrong side of the street. Encounter Tarver Montgomery who claims priority rights and accuses me of trespassing. Says he's been on the west side of Main so long he's got accustomed to the place, and it will be all right with him if the sidewalk from his home to town is left clear for his perambulation, because when he gets started he goes places. So I move over to the Pay'n Takit side and finally land in a barber shop where I have to takit again. Oh, well, this is the time when the nuts are falling so I'll get along on either side.

My friend Ted Stephenson, who tried to gargle me into competition with the city hall Gothics, is sick. I am afraid he is going to get well.

My understanding is that when you drive from the curb into the traffic the responsibility is yours. Sometimes the driver takes the responsibility and a fender at the same time. Another way to get into trouble is don't look, don't listen, don't stop. That's why a little jam occurred on North Sycamore street Monday noon. Result: Conversation, a few pencil notations, with the final agreement that the argument be referred to the insurance companies.

That friend of mine who drove to San Diego, visited the nudist colony and went to sleep, will be 93 his next birthday.

Cal Gilbert, big fellow about my size, wanted to know if I had seen Diogenes. What did Gilbert want with a fellow who used a lantern instead of an electric light bulb? Was it curiosity or an impersonation? Then the conversation drifted back to the time of kerosene lamps when the fellow with the smallest hand got to clean the lamp chimneys. I finally got rid of him when I went back to the time when mother used to mould tallow candles. Doggone that kid, I'd have gone farther back than that if he had driven me to it.

Sam Meyer moves up to my desk and says: "The Coast Association is going to hold a meeting at the Capistrano high school." I'd want to invite me to the meeting or was there a subtle inference that a visit to a high school might have a wholesome influence? Sam, don't reply through the Newport News. I'll come down and talk it over with you privately.

Understand Major Anderson had a birthday last week. He's not official for the reason that it did not appear in The Journal's happy birthday column, and for another reason—I wasn't there.

You got to be on the right side of the counter to get the benefit of the holidays. If it's a bank or a title office, it's the court house, you get the vacation. But if you just happen to be one of the proletariat there is no change in the daily grind. Columbus' phantom floated in Saturday and it didn't mean a thing different to most of us, so far as a vacation was concerned. But who wants to start a bank just to get an occasional day off?

A young lady of my acquaintance found out that a car will stop when it hits the one in front with the brakes locked. It'll do it every time. Oh, well, what's one more bump of ten? At that And then the automobile accessory stores have more bumpers, and there are mechanics and mechanics, and anyway one good bump deserves another.

Notice where some eastern high-brow is boasting of having a chauffeur who sports a monocle. Huh, wonder if they are buying them on payments, too.

Down North Main street there are so many signs where the schools are located. If an autoist stopped to read all of 'em there would be a congestion. At that I'm in favor of 'em. Anything to give the pedestrian a break, especially the boys and girls who are compelled to negotiate those crossings during the day. Yesterday morning we had painters and Patrolman George Boyd, and maybe some authorities, my ops failed to discover. But at the same time we also had a few hundred pupils going back and forth and I favor all possible protective measures from traffic accidents. It is an interesting study to watch the automobile driver. One will observe the law with full consideration for life and limb, and the rules governing operation. Another will snarl like a hyena because he has to stop. Others try and pull a fast one and go through. That's when Boyd starts. And like the Canadian mounted police, George gets his man.
